DETAILED ACTION

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

1. The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(e) the invention was described in (1) an application for patent, published under section 122(b), by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent or (2) a patent granted on an application for patent by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent, except that an international application filed under the treaty defined in section 351(a) shall have the effects for purposes of this subsection of an application filed in the United States only if the international application designated the United States and was published under Article 21(2) of such treaty in the English language.

2. Claims 1-5 and 13-21 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(e) as being anticipated by US 6,540,767 to Walak et al.

Walak discloses an intravascular filter having a central axis comprising an elongate member 37; an anchoring member for anchoring the intravascular filter to a vessel wall (see attached figure below) and a cutting member disposed on the elongate member and generally facing towards the central axis (see attached figure below); wherein the cutting member extends from a first end of the elongate member to a second end of the elongate member; wherein when the filter is placed within a body vessel having a vessel wall, the filter is configured so that the anchoring member contacts the vessel wall and the first end of the first elongate section is spaced apart from the vessel wall (see attached figure below); wherein the elongated member has a uniform cross-section along its length; wherein the cutting member has a single edge in the form of a wedge (pointed shape); wherein the filter is capable of being used as a vena cava filter; wherein the filter is made of stainless steel or a shape-memory material, such as nitinol (col. 4, lines 56-64); wherein the filter has more than one elongate member, which forms a filtering region.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

3. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

Art Unit: 3773

4. The factual inquiries set forth in Graham v. John Deere Co., 383 U.S. 1, 148 USPQ 459 (1966), that are applied for establishing a background for determining obviousness under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) are summarized as follows:

1. Determining the scope and contents of the prior art.
2. Ascertaining the differences between the prior art and the claims at issue.
3. Resolving the level of ordinary skill in the pertinent art.
4. Considering objective evidence present in the application indicating obviousness or nonobviousness.

5. Claims 6-12 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Walak et al., as applied to the claims above.

Walak discloses all the limitation of the claims except for the cutting member having more than one cutting edge, or having different shapes. However, it would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art at the time the invention was made to have more than one cutting edge, since it has been held that mere duplication of the essential working parts of a device involves only routine skill in the art. In re Harza, 274 F.2d, 669, 124 USPQ 378 (CCPA 1960). Furthermore, it would have been obvious to one having ordinary skill in the art at the time the invention was made to modify the shape of the cutting edge since it has been held that changing the shape of a working part involves only routine skill in the art. In re Dailey, 357 F.2d 669, 149 USPQ 47 (CCPA 1966).

Response to Arguments

6. Applicant's arguments filed 1/29/08 have been fully considered but they are not persuasive.

7. The applicant argued that the Walak reference fails to disclose a cutting member. Thus, the examiner has provided an additional illustration above to clearly show that the filter device of Walak has barbs that are facing inwardly. These barbs are being interpreted as "cutting members" because they are fully capable of providing a "cut", which is defined by Merriam-Webster Online Dictionary (www.m-w.com) as: to penetrate with or as if with an edged instrument. The barbs of Walak is viewed as an edge instrument used to penetrate tissues. It is noted that the applicant has not provided any structural limitations to further define the shape or orientation of the cutting member away from a "barb".

Conclusion

8. THIS ACTION IS MADE FINAL. Applicant is reminded of the extension of time policy as set forth in 37 CFR 1.136(a).

A shortened statutory period for reply to this final action is set to expire THREE MONTHS from the mailing date of this action. In the event a first reply is filed within TWO MONTHS of the mailing date of this final action and the advisory action is not mailed until after the end of the THREE-MONTH shortened statutory period, then the shortened statutory period will expire on the date the advisory action is mailed, and any extension fee pursuant to 37 CFR 1.136(a) will be calculated from the mailing date of the advisory action. In no event, however, will the statutory period for reply expire later than SIX MONTHS from the mailing date of this final action.
